

A Nepali Surprise

by Jill Riley, p. 52

Kent Covenant Church is redefining the possibilities of world mission without leaving the country.

1. How would you define world mission? How have technology, travel, and our culture changed the way we do world mission?
2. Bashu Pasai made a leap of faith when he moved to the Seattle area. Have you ever felt like God was telling you to do something that was a challenge or didn't make sense?
3. Kent Covenant Church saw changes occur in its community over a ten-year period. What changes have you seen in your community in the past ten years?
4. Has your church had to adapt to demographic shifts in your community? How have you done so?
5. Kent Covenant has flags hanging from twenty-six different nations of origin represented in its congregation. What challenges do you think this diversity would bring to worship? What benefits?
