A CONVERSATION WITH CHITRA HANSTAD AND CINDY M. WU

p. 30

Our global refugee crisis and what we can do about it

1. What connections do you have with refugees in your area?
2. Chitra Hanstad explains that one of the first things the US resettlement program does for refugees is help them find work, whereas countries such as Canada focus primarily on helping newcomers learn English and adjust to a new country. What would you prioritize for refugees transitioning to life in the States?
3. The article offers various ways the Bible can inform our thinking on refugees. How would you articulate our biblical responsibility regarding this conversation?
4. What surprised you about the statistics in the article? What other information would you have liked to see included?
5. What do you still find confusing or troubling about the global refugee crisis?
