

Back to Where We Once Belonged

By Cheryl Lynn Cain, p. 44

How a trip to Colombia became a journey toward understanding identity and God's true call

1. What cultural foods do you remember eating in your childhood home?
2. Cheryl Lynn Cain grew up trying to fit into two different cultures. Are there places where you have to adapt part of yourself in order to feel like you belong?
3. Richard and Marlys Johnson have continued to be active in ministry well after retirement. Are there retirees in your church community who stand out to you for their faithful and continued service?
4. Cain and the Johnsons discovered multiple points of connection between them. Which did you find the most surprising?
5. Where do you feel most welcomed to be your true self?
