

No Matter Who Is in the White House...Christmas Is Coming

By Leeann Younger, p. 47

We are called to be Christmas, in places where it feels as if winter might never end.

1. How did you navigate the stress and division of this past election season?
2. Leeann Younger predicts that after this year's election, someone will say, "No matter who is in the White House, Jesus is still on the throne." Have you heard this said? What was your reaction to it?
3. Younger uses the phrase "Jesus juke." Can you think of any other examples of a Jesus juke?
4. If we are called to "be Christmas," what does that look like in your context?
